Great leadership is not about control it's about cultivating others.

As the demands on leaders increase, coaching and succession planning have never been more essential. But even the most experienced leaders sometimes struggle with where to start, what to ask, or how to identify future potential across their teams.

That's where AI comes in - not to replace the human side of leadership, but to amplify it.

In Using AI in Leadership: Coaching and Succession, you'll explore how tools like ChatGPT (REACH LX) can support your ability to coach with greater depth, consistency, and creativity. You'll learn to prompt AI for insights, create frameworks for career development conversations, and enhance your ability to empower others without overextending yourself.

The goal isn't more automation. It's more impact with less overwhelm.
